

MA Studentship in Photography Studies, Durham

WELCH E.

The School of Modern Languages and Cultures at Durham University (UK) is pleased to offer an AHRC-funded MA studentship in Photography Studies for the academic year 2010/11 under the Block Grant Partnership scheme. The studentship is available to UK and EU candidates studying on a full or part-time basis. Applications are welcome from candidates intending to study for the School's MA in the Photographic Image. Applications are also welcome from students wishing to pursue a research MA in topics related to the photographic image (including text-image relations, photography in/and literature, photography and cultural memory) across different national cultures (including France, Germany, Italy and Latin America). In order to be considered for this award, you must have applied for a place to study with us. The closing date for doing so is 15 March 2010. Applicants should state that they wish to be considered for the AHRC studentship on the online form.

For more information on the MA in the Photographic Image, go here:

<http://www.dur.ac.uk/mlac/postgraduate/ma-pi/>

To apply on line, go here:

<http://www.dur.ac.uk/postgraduate/apply/>

To discuss the MA, or your plans for a research MA in this area, please contact the MA Course Director, Prof. Jonathan Long (j.j.long@dur.ac.uk)

Reference:

STIP: MA Studentship in Photography Studies, Durham. In: ArtHist.net, Jan 31, 2010 (accessed Dec 18, 2025), <<https://arthist.net/archive/32240>>.