

Tutor in Art Criticism (2 days), Royal College of Art, London

David Crowley

Tutor in Art Criticism (2 days) at the Royal College of Art, London

The Royal College of Art has a long history of achievement in art and design education, numerous eminent graduates and a remarkable record of graduate employment. The School of Humanities consists of three departments, Critical and Historical Studies, Curating Contemporary Art and History of Design (launched in 1982 in collaboration with the Victoria and Albert Museum - V&A). Following a successful validation, a new Humanities department of Critical Writing in Art and Design is being launched in October 2010.

Together these departments provide an opportunity to study and research the history, philosophy, critical interpretation and curating of art, craft, design and communications.

We are seeking a Tutor in Art Criticism, to work on a two day per week basis, within the newly formed Department of Critical Writing. Teaching on the new MA will offer students the opportunity to develop skills as writers in the diverse contexts where contemporary art and design are promoted and discussed, across all disciplines within the College. Your responsibilities will include contributing to the taught elements of the course, and, in conjunction with the Head of Department, the design and planning of the MA curriculum. You will also contribute to the examination and assessment procedures and department publications. You will be an experienced teacher of postgraduate students within the field of Art History and should be able to contribute by research and professional practice and through publication, exhibition or equivalent to the advancement of learning in your specialised discipline. The appointment will be made at 2 days per week and the salary range is GBP 41,085 -GBP 45,974 pro rata.

For a job description, further information and an application form please visit our website www.rca.ac.uk or e-mail the Personnel Assistant at personnel@rca.ac.uk. Alternatively please write to the Personnel Assistant, Royal College of Art, Kensington Gore, London, SW7 2EU or telephone 020 7590 4138. For an informal discussion, please contact the Head of School, Jeremy Aynsley, on 020 7590 4487 or e-mail jeremy.aynsley@rca.ac.uk

Closing date: Monday 12 April 2010

The Royal College of Art is committed to equal opportunities for all

Reference:

JOB: Tutor in Art Criticism (2 days), Royal College of Art, London. In: Arthist.net, Mar 27, 2010 (accessed Sep 21, 2026), <<https://arthist.net/archive/32486>>.