

Teaching World History Through Art (Eugene, OR, 8-9 Oct 10)

Shawna Herzog

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Northwest Affiliate of the World History Association will hold its 7th Annual Conference on Friday and Saturday, October 8-9, in Eugene, Oregon and is inviting scholars to submit proposals to present their research.

This year the NWWHA meets in conjunction with The Oregon Council for Social Studies and we expect upwards of 200 registrants for the event. Alfred Andrea, President of the WHA, will be the keynote speaker. The conference theme is "Teaching World History Through Art". The term "Art" includes popular culture, electronic media, performing and visual arts. However, paper proposals on any aspect of teaching, researching, or conceptualizing World History will be welcome - either complete panel proposals or individual papers. Panel sessions will normally be one and a half hours.

Deadline for proposals: June 30, 2010. Please send proposals as an email with the subject line "NWWHA 2010 Proposal" to Shawna Herzog at Washington State University, Pullman (sherzog2@wsu.edu). Proposals should be included as an attachment, and the titles of the attached proposals should include the last name of the panel organizer or of the individual presenter (i.e. jonesProposal.doc).
