NEH Grant Opportunity

The National Endowment for the Humanities is offering grants of up to $75,000 for conferences that help teachers form connections between Picturing America images and courses in the core curriculum.

Deadline: October 7, 2010

Program Details

American colleges, universities, associations, libraries, museums, and other non-profit organizations are encouraged to design conferences that help teachers who have already received the Picturing America images form connections with courses in the core curriculum.

Goals of the Picturing America School Collaboration Projects grants are:

- to strengthen understanding of the connections between great works of American art and significant events, themes, and topics in the American experience;
- to encourage local and regional collaboration between K-12 educators and humanities experts who can bring appropriate knowledge to the integration of American artworks in core subjects;
- to foster discussion of how to use the Picturing America images among K-12 teachers within a locality or region; and
- to provide access to rich scholarly resources and primary materials that support teaching.

Funded projects should

- support one or more conferences of one or two days each;
- accommodate at each conference thirty to one hundred (or more) participants, all of whom already have access to the Picturing America portfolio; and
- provide opportunities for participants to engage with scholars, museum and library professionals, and other experts.
