

Assist Prof Latin American Art (Univ Chicago)

Lillian Wilson

The Art History Department at the University of Chicago solicits applications for an approved tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in the art of Latin America in the 20th century. Applicants with expertise across a geographic range and/or interest in Latin American interactions with other regions are especially encouraged to apply. Dissertation must be completed before taking up appointment. Complete application materials include cover letter (including discussion of research plans and teaching interests), CV, three letters of recommendation, and selected writing samples (a dissertation chapter plus abstract and/or a closely related article). Applicants must upload the CV and cover letter to the Academic Career Opportunities Website at <http://academiccareers.uchicago.edu>. Applicants should send writing samples in electronic format (MS Word or PDF) to tmorin@uchicago.edu with subject heading "Latin American Search" and have three letters of reference sent directly to the same e-mail address. For full consideration, all application materials must be received by 1 November 2010. Materials received after January 15 will not be accepted. The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.
