

Teaching Fellow in Modern / Contemporary Art History, Warwick

University of Warwick, History of Art Department

Application deadline: Apr 14, 2021

Naomi Vogt

Location: Coventry

Salary: £41,526 to £49,553 per annum.

Hours: Full Time

Contract Type: Fixed-Term/Contract

Placed On: 4th March 2021

Closes: 14th April 2021

Job Ref: 1875353

Full-time, fixed-term contract for 24 months.

You will contribute to teaching and administration in order to support the work of the School (at Warwick and possibly in Venice) and develop and enhance its teaching reputation, both internally and externally.

You will have a PhD in Modern/Contemporary Art History or related field.

We are seeking candidates working in any field of art, architecture, visual and material culture, in a period between 1800 and the present. We are particularly interested in candidates with a solid experience of teaching and a large portfolio of taught modules. A specialisation in the following areas is particularly welcome:

Art or Architecture of Modern and Contemporary Africa or of the African Diaspora; or Art and Architecture of the Modern and Contemporary Middle East; or Global Modernism.

You will teach modules at undergraduate level and provide supervision for second and third-year students writing dissertations on modern and contemporary topics. You will also contribute teaching to MA modules. Like all other members of staff, you will provide personal tutoring to all years alongside academic administration activities determined by the Head of Discipline.

You will be required to help with open/interview days.

We particularly welcome applicants from those who are significantly underrepresented in our sector, including people with disabilities and individuals from Black, Asian and Minority ethnic communities.

Informal inquiries may be addressed to Professor Lorenzo Pericolo L.Pericolo@warwick.ac.uk.

Full details of the duties and selection criteria for this role can be found in the vacancy advert on the University of Warwick's jobs pages. You will be routed to this when you click on the Apply button.

Interview date: 28 April 2021.
