Assistant Professor, Indian & South Asian Art History, Columbia University

Columbia University, New York, NY, Jul 01, 2022
Application deadline: Jan 15, 2022

Satomi Tucker

Columbia University's Department of Art History and Archaeology invites applications for the Barbara Stoler Miller Assistant Professorship in Indian and South Asian Art, a tenure track position beginning July 1, 2022. Specialists in all subfields and periods will be considered. The Department particularly encourages applications from candidates whose research and teaching will contribute to a global vision of the history of art and to the diversity of the Columbia academic community.

Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active agenda of research and publication while also teaching in undergraduate and graduate programs.

All applications must be made through Columbia University's online Academic Search and Recruiting Site (ASR). On the ASR site, applicants should upload the following required materials: cover letter, curriculum vitae, and one published article or article-length writing sample. Applicants should also enter the information and arrange for three letters of reference to be sent on their behalf. The search committee will begin reviewing applications January 15, 2022 and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled.

For more information and to apply, please go to: apply.interfolio.com/95814

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. The University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a diverse environment, and strongly encourages applications from women, minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.