Registration deadline: May 11, 2022

Deirdre M. Smith, University of Texas at Austin

Other Animals: Ways of Knowing and Seeing Across Species

This one-day graduate symposium is organized by Dr. Deirdre Smith in conjunction with her graduate seminar "Other Animals: Ways of Knowing and Seeing Across Species". The presentations will cover a range of topics in the history of art, film and poetics, tied together by themes of non-human animal subjects, animality, species, and human and non-human animal relationships.

The program will close with a keynote address by Sarah R. Cohen, Professor of Art History and Women's Studies and Chair of the Department of Art and Art History at the University at Albany, SUNY. Dr. Cohen's presentation will be based on her recent book, Enlightened Animals in Eighteenth-Century Art: Sensation, Matter and Knowledge (Bloomsbury, 2021).
