Russian Art and Culture Postgraduate Writing Competition
Call for entries

Russian Art and Culture, the largest Russian art website in the UK, is launching a new graduate writing competition to coincide with our official launch event in November 2012. This prize is intended to give graduates an opportunity to have academic work published.

Entries must relate to Russian/Soviet art (i.e. painting, sculpture, architecture, film, design or photography) and are invited from all recent (within the last 12 months) or current History of Art graduates enrolled on a Masters course or PhD. Submissions will be judged by a panel of experts in the field of Russian art.

The prize winning entry will receive a £400 cash prize as well as publication of the essay on Russian Art and Culture website and in the first issue of a new online journal of graduate writing launched by the website in November.

For full guidelines and details see http://www.russianartandculture.com/competition-russian-art-and-culture-postgraduate-writing-competition/ or contact with queries or submissions to office@russianartandculture.com

Deadline for submission: Monday 15 October 2012
