[1] Celebrations at Court: Ephemeral Objects, Materials and Machineries in the early modern period

From: Casper Thorhaug Mønsted

Date: Jun 9, 2022

Deadline: Aug 1, 2022

Enhancing the cultural prestige and power of the princely dynasties, vast amounts of resources and effort were invested in various art forms at the European court festivities of the fifteenth through seventeenth centuries, including ephemeral objects.

With this conference session we wish to explore the interrelations between spectacle, performance, machineries, and materials at court festivities.

We seek contributions that present how various materials and technologies were utilized in staging festivities at court and that reflect on the notions of art and nature as well as the various approaches to import, production and handling of the materials underlying the celebrations.

We hope to draw new attention to a field crossing over various aspects of the visual culture of the time and welcome both empirical and theoretical analyses.

Contributions might shed light on some of the following questions (but are not limited to these):

- What kinds of technology and machinery were used and how was it integrated in the celebrations?
- How were firework spectacles designed and staged?
- What were the relations between the designs and production of fireworks and artillery/equipment for military purposes?
- How was allegory and symbolic content integrated in the festivals and for what purposes?
- What role did royal sites (tournaments squares, parks etc.) as well as the urban fabric play as frameworks for the spectacles?
- Which concepts of art and nature were embedded in the spectacles and their equipment?
- In which ways were the media of books and prints used to present the theory and practice of materials and techniques related to the court celebrations?
- How did artist's mobility, trade and cultural exchange influence knowledge transfer related to the making of spectacles?
