

Tenure-track position, Art History, IE University

Madrid, Spain, Sep 01, 2023

Application deadline: Feb 15, 2023

Finetta Alvarez

IE University's Arts and Humanities Division seeks a tenure-track faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall of 2023.

Successful candidates will hold a PhD in Art History with a specialization in any period up to the 19th century. We are particularly interested in scholars with a focus on ideological and historical contexts of artistic movements. Preference will be given to candidates whose research and teaching interests embrace a transnational scope, as well as those with previous involvement with public-facing scholarship and digital humanities.

We are seeking applicants with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in scholarship and teaching in a liberal arts college environment, and who can play a significant role in shaping the future direction of the department.

Teaching responsibilities include 135 contact hours per year, divided across a range of introductory and advanced undergraduate courses. Additional duties will include conducting research, writing for publication, participating in department governance, and university service.

The position requires a Ph.D. degree and native or near-native proficiency in English.

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, two confidential letters of recommendation, a teaching statement, job market paper and evidence of teaching excellence in the form of teaching evaluations. Create your dossier and apply at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/119036> by February 15, 2023.

IE University is strongly committed to non-discriminatory hiring practices and encourages applications from individuals who will further expand the diversity of our faculty.

IE University is located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. Our working language and medium of instruction is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

The Arts and Humanities Division is a transversal academic department across IE University's five schools. We offer courses in both undergraduate and master's programs to more than 4,000 students per year. We are one of the key components of IE Impact, IE University's core curriculum for undergraduate students.
