

Photographer Edith Tudor-Hart in Britain

Publication

Deadline: Dec 18, 2023

Graeme Farnell, Edinburgh

We invite international submissions for our forthcoming book, Edith Tudor-Hart in Britain, which will be published next year (2024) in conjunction with a major retrospective exhibition at Salzburg's Fotohof. It will be edited by curator, writer and tutor Shirley Read, who published the first-ever review of the photographer's work while an Editor at Camerawork. Proposals should be submitted by Monday 18 December 2023. Please feel free to forward this information to colleagues who may have a special interest.

Both communist and jewish, Austrian photographer Edith Tudor-Hart (née Suschitzky) fled to Britain in 1933. Her work is known for its focus on class relations, the "combative" socialist perspective which informed it, and its clarity of vision and composition. As her oeuvre is increasingly researched, reconstructed and reassessed, it has become a source of inspiration for those interested in exploring a realist tradition in photography.

Edith Tudor-Hart in Britain will be the first book to focus in depth on her British work. Drawing on her archive at Fotohof and other collections throughout Europe, it will feature some 100 largely unpublished images, and will break new ground in examining the physicality of those historic prints which have survived, and in creating historically-informed prints from the surviving negatives.

EDITOR

Shirley Read is a curator, writer and tutor in photography who, while an Editor at Camerawork, published the first-ever overview of Edith Tudor-Hart's work. She has interviewed for the British Library's Oral History of British Photography archive for 30 years and is the author of Photographers and Research (Routledge) and Exhibiting Photography (Focal Press). She holds a degree in History from the School of Slavonic and East European Studies at the University of London, and an MA in Photography: History and Culture from the University of the Arts, London.

SUBMISSIONS

We welcome international proposals for (longer) Essays and (briefer) Notes from museum, gallery and heritage professionals, academics, photographers and researchers. We aim to prioritise the socialist perspective in Tudor-Hart's work and to avoid viewing it from a nostalgic perspective. The book will focus entirely on her work as a photographer and not on her undercover work, although intelligence records may be of interest in so far as they illuminate her photographic work.

Essays

Aspects of interest include – but are not limited to – the following:

Changes in the work over time

Child education

Class relations

Disability

People at their work

Photographic work in books, periodicals and advertising

Political perspectives

Portraits and self-portraits

Resistance and action

Street photography

The built environment

The émigré perspective

The representation of women

Writings on photography

Notes

The book will feature a number of brief (probably illustrated) “in-focus” contributions. More informal in form where appropriate, these may examine detailed aspects of her work, or individual images. Aspects of interest might include - but are not limited to - the following:

Captions and titles

Composition

Cropping

Lighting

Printing - historic and modern

The analysis of individual images

* The analysis of one or more negatives

All authors will have access to the wide range of images being used in the book, for illustration purposes.

SUBMITTING A PROPOSAL

You can propose either an Essay or a Note. Proposals for ESSAYS should be a maximum of 500 words in length. Proposals for NOTES should be a maximum of 200 words. Both should be accompanied by a biography of 100-300 words. All submissions should be in Microsoft Word format.

ESSAYS will be 2000-3000 words in length; NOTES will be 400-600 words. The inclusion of images is encouraged. Please prepare your proposal with these parameters in mind. The work should not have been published elsewhere. All contributions must be submitted in English - translation services will not be provided. Authors will receive a copy of the final publication and a 10% discount on further copies.

The deadline for proposals is 18 December 2023. Please email your proposal to ETHproposals@museumsetc.com. Any queries in advance of submission should be sent to ETHqueries@museumsetc.com.

Edith Tudor-Hart in Britain will be published by MuseumsEtc in print and digital editions in May 2024. Contributors will receive a complimentary copy of the publication and a discount on more.
