VSAC 2024 - Call for Submissions.

VSAC: The Visual Science of Art Conference aims to connect artists and scientists to further our understanding of perceptual, conceptual and aesthetic aspects of art. The conference provides a venue for artists and scientists to present their work in various formats: talks, conversations, symposia, demonstrations and posters.

The Visual Science of Art Conference invites talks, posters, conversations, artworks and demos connecting the arts to visual perception, including empirical, experimental, philosophical, phenomenological, and computational approaches. VSAC began in 2012, when Baingio Pinna organized it as a satellite symposium for the European Conference on Visual Perception (ECVP). Next year, ECVP will be organized in Aberdeen from Aug 25-29.

Important Dates

Symposia submissions: until January 26, 2024

Talk, Poster and Conversation submissions: until March 1, 2024

Notification of acceptance: April 12, 2024

Other Types of Submissions

There are two types of submissions – Presentations and Conversations. The deadline to submit abstracts is March 1, 2024.

Presentations: : There are two formats: Talks and Posters. If you submit a presentation, please provide a title, 300-word abstract, authors and affiliations, and detailed keywords. Please indicate your preferred presentation format. You may submit only one presentation as first/presenting author, but you can co-author as many as you wish.

Conversations: Conversations between artists and scientists have a special place in VSAC's program. Conversations typically report collaborative research, but could also be a dialogue between two speakers. If the 300-word abstract is too limited, you can use the supplementary material.

Please submit all abstracts here: <https://easychair.org/cfp/vsac2024>.

VSAC 2024 will take place in Aberdeen, Scotland on the 22nd-24th of August 2024 just before ECVF 2024.
