Impressionism Across Fields. New Interdisciplinary Perspectives.

Impressionism celebrates its 150th anniversary. This "plein air" art, whose anniversary we are celebrating, remains relevant by raising issues—related to territory and the environment, time and climate, or even the dialogue of arts—that resonate in our changing world. Viewing impressionist paintings in 2024 means putting into perspective this present moment filled with questions—around ecology, gender, plural identities, or the digital—that inevitably shape our perspective and enrich the understanding of this movement born in 1874.

Initiated by the University of Paris Nanterre, as part of its Impressionism research program supported by the University Foundation, in partnership with the Contract Normandy - Paris Ile-de-France : Impressionism Destination, this conference is co-organized with the musée d'Orsay on the occasion of the exhibition Paris 1874: Inventing Impressionism.

Its aim is to discuss how impressionism is understood today by scholars from all over the world in different fields of research, and to deal with the history and the historiography of Impressionism. The conference will highlight new interpretations and readings of the movement.

On May 16th and 17th, the conference will take place at the auditorium of the Musée d'Orsay
Esplanade Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, 75007 Paris

Free admission upon reservation

On May 18th, the conference will be held at the auditorium of the Institut national d'histoire de l'art (INHA)

2, rue Vivienne, 75002 Paris

Free admission subject to availability
