Oberhausen, Sep 15–18, 2024

Deadline: Jul 31, 2024

Robert Barbarino

We are excited to share the call for applications for "SO MUCH MORE TO SHARE – a Summer School on Community Arts and Activism" taking place in Oberhausen/Germany from 15th of September to 18th of September 2024. We welcome applications from students, early PhD candidates, and those who do community art, to push the boundaries between arts, academia, and activism.

Through public lectures and workshops, we will encounter different approaches to community art and art as activism and will explore questions under the thematic umbrellas of "Constructing communities," and "Arts-based methods." We will have the opportunity to discuss conceptual, methodological, and practical contributions that critically situate community art within the urban sphere.

12 applicants can join the fully funded Summer School at kitev Oberhausen.

To apply, we ask you to send a current CV (one page) to info@kitev.de. The deadline for applications is the 31th of July 2024.

Please feel free to share the call within your network or with anyone the Summer School might be of interest to.

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to get in touch via barbarino@kitev.de.
