The Graduate College of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is announcing a new interdisciplinary arts and humanities initiative, called "Seeing Systems," which focuses on the study of vision and technology. The Seeing Systems program is inviting applications from students to pursue their graduate studies at UIUC for the 2013 academic year in a range of programs, including in art history, media and cinema, and African-American studies.

Fellowships include a $20,000 per year stipend, as well as a waiver of tuition and campus fees. For details and applications procedures see: http://publish.illinois.edu/seeingsystems/
