The Gothick Revival in eighteenth-century Britain is a multi-faceted phenomenon, simultaneously liminal and mainstream, historical and modern, whimsical and serious.

This one-day symposium seeks to explore the revival's many dimensions. Proposals are invited for 20-minute papers that address any aspect of the revival, and may include:

art
architecture
interiors
furniture
antiquarianism
history
literature
medievalism
patronage
politics
restoration sexuality

Please email 250-word proposals to the symposium organisers, Oliver Cox and Peter Lindfield by 31 May 2013 at
