

Open Arts Journal Issue 12

Tilo Reifenstein

The Winter 2025-26 issue of the Open Arts Journal (iss.12), 'Picturing bodies in medieval and early modern Europe', is edited by Andrew Murray and Margit Thøfner and explores how images and visual culture shaped, challenged and constituted embodiment across medieval and early modern Europe.

All content is available entirely open access, without registration or subscription.

Table of Contents

0. Picturing bodies in medieval and early modern Europe: 'What, then, is everyone writing about?'

Andrew Murray and Margit Thøfner

<https://openartsjournal.org/issue-12/article-0/>

10.5456/issn.2050-3679/2025w00

1. Raptoriness: the 'bodies' of humans becoming-with birds of prey in the art and archaeology of early medieval England

Robert Wallis

<https://openartsjournal.org/issue-12/article-1/>

10.5456/issn.2050-3679/2025w01

2. Unbounded: The multiplicity of bodies and beings in Viking worlds

Brad Marshall, Emma L. Thompson, Alexander Wilson and Marianne Hem Eriksen

<https://openartsjournal.org/issue-12/article-2/>

10.5456/issn.2050-3679/2025w02

3. Veiling: Mourning between body and image

Andrew Murray

<https://openartsjournal.org/issue-12/article-3/>

10.5456/issn.2050-3679/2025w03

4. Conjoined: Dürer and Leonardo

M.A. Katritzky

<https://openartsjournal.org/issue-12/article-4/>

10.5456/issn.2050-3679/2025w04

5. Fat? The contested femininity of Marguerite de Valois in Rubens's Medici Cycle

Scarlett Butler

<https://openartsjournal.org/issue-12/article-5/>

10.5456/issn.2050-3679/2025w05

6. Orifices: Surgery and sodomy in early modern Rome

Silvia de Renzi

<https://openartsjournal.org/issue-12/article-6/>

10.5456/issn.2050-3679/2025w06

7. Organ: fish and other bodies in an early modern Lutheran convent church

Margit Thøfner

<https://openartsjournal.org/issue-12/article-7/>

10.5456/issn.2050-3679/2025w07

Reference:

TOC: Open Arts Journal Issue 12. In: ArtHist.net, Jan 26, 2026 (accessed Mar 14, 2026), <<https://arthist.net/archive/51580>>.