Call for Publication Grants, The Leonard A. Lauder Research Center for Modern Art at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Applications are open until March 31, 2026, for Leonard A. Lauder Publication Grants, supporting new work in the field of modern art. We use the term 'modern art' inclusively to refer to architecture, drawing, design (including exhibition, graphic, interior and stage design), film, painting, performance, photography, printmaking, sculpture, and textiles in the period from the last third of the nineteenth century through the 1960s, from any country, region or culture. (If your application is focused on art from the 1970s onwards or on other historical periods, it will be rejected). Recognizing the increasing costs associated with publishing, awards support illustrations and copyright, translations into English, diagrams, copy editing and indexing (if not provided by the publisher). The maximum award available is $12,000 with most grants typically in the range $4,000-7,000. Applications are assessed by a panel.

Detailed information on the application materials to be submitted, the eligible costs, the award criteria, and previous awardees, are all available on the Research Center website: <https://www.metmuseum.org/research-centers/leonard-a-lauder-research-center/grants/publication-grants>.
