International Conference Horizons of Modern Romanian Sculpture: from Karl Storck to Constantin Brancusi.

The “G. Oprescu” Institute of Art History is honored to announce the organization of the international conference “Horizons of Modern Romanian Sculpture: from Karl Storck to Constantin Brancusi”. This high-level academic event will take place on May 28–29, 2026, in the splendid Royal Dining Hall of the National Museum of Art of Romania, and will also be accessible online via live Zoom streaming. The conference will be held in English.

The year 2026 marks a triple symbolic celebration for both Romanian and universal cultural heritage: 150 years since the birth of Constantin Brancusi, the bicentenary of Karl Storck’s birth, and the centenary of Carol Storck’s death. The conference proposes a rigorous investigation of modern sculpture, tracing the dual genealogy of these seminal figures: from the institutionalization of the national school of sculpture under the aegis of the Storck family in the late nineteenth century and the neoclassical period, to the Brancusian plastic revolution, which radically reconfigured the universal visual language through direct carving (taille directe) and the essentialization of form.

The conference organizers – the Department of Visual Arts and Architecture. Modern Period, coordinated by Dr. Adrian-Silvan Ionescu, Director of the “G. Oprescu” Institute of Art History – have designed a broad framework for debate, offering participants the opportunity to discuss the latest theoretical approaches to the study of Romanian and international sculpture and to share research information and experiences. The conference themes include: the institutionalization of sculpture, modernity and archaism, the paradigm of Constantin Brancusi’s work, artistic transfers and influences, artistic genealogies, and women sculptors.

The event will bring together 27 papers presented by renowned specialists from around the world, creating a space for interdisciplinary dialogue. Over the two conference days, three distinguished figures of contemporary art historiography will deliver keynote lectures: Dr. Doina Lemny, “A Gift for ‘Brancusi Year’ – A Unique Collection of Original Photographs”; Dr. Jonathan Vernon, “Brancusi: Limits and Contradictions”; and Dr. Cristian-Robert Velescu, “Constantin Brancusi, trois Musées endormies. Identification et approche iconologique: La Muse Rumsey, La Muse Guggenheimer, La ‘Pseudo-Muse Guggenheimer’. La ‘part’ d’Erik Satie.”
