The department of Prof. Dr. Tristan Weddigen at the Bibliotheca Hertziana – Max Planck Institute for Art History in Rome invites applications for predoctoral and postdoctoral fellowships for the academic year 2027/28.

Under the overarching theme Art of the Modern Age in a Global Context, the department welcomes projects that address one of its research priorities, though proposals are not limited to them: Rome Contemporary, Materiality and Mediality, Italy in a Global Context, Transnational History of Art History, and Digital Visual Studies. More information about the department's research agenda is available on the institute's website.

Terms and Conditions

The fellowships are intended for early-career scholars who do not yet hold a permanent position. Applicants may propose a fellowship period of three to twelve months, depending on their research plan; extensions up to a total of twelve months are possible through an application to the following call. Fellows will join a group of early-career scholars working on one of the five research priorities, conduct a project in Rome for which the institute offers excellent working conditions, and take part in the department's activities.

In addition to entering their personal details on the platform, applicants are asked to upload the following as PDF files: a letter of motivation; a curriculum vitae with a list of publications; a project description, including a bibliography and a work plan; writing samples (optional).

The Max Planck Society is committed to equality and diversity in all fields of research and particularly welcomes applications from members of underrepresented groups.

Application Deadline and Submission

Applications must be submitted by January 24, 2027 via the institute's recruitment platform: https://recruitment.biblhertz.it.

Online interviews will take place at the end of February 2027. Fellowships may begin on April 1, 2027 at the earliest and must end by July 15, 2028.
