Scientific Assistant Positions, Bibliotheca Hertziana, Rome

Bibliotheca Hertziana – Max Planck Institute for Art History (BHMPI)
Application deadline: Jan 24, 2027

Mara Freiberg Simmen

The department of Prof. Dr. Tristan Weddigen at the Bibliotheca Hertziana – Max Planck Institute for Art History in Rome invites early-career postdoctoral art historians to apply for positions as scientific assistants. The positions begin on October 1, 2027, and run for up to two years.

Terms and Conditions

Scientific assistants pursue their own research in Rome for which the institute offers excellent working conditions. They also work closely with the director and oversee the department's scholarly activities in one or two of its research priorities. More information about the department's research agenda is available on the institute's website. Salary and benefits are determined by German and Italian tax and social security law.

In addition to entering their personal details on the platform, applicants are asked to upload the following as PDF files: a letter of motivation; curriculum vitae with a list of publications; a research project description, including a bibliography and a work plan; writing samples (optional).

The Max Planck Society is committed to equality and diversity in all fields of research and particularly welcomes applications from members of underrepresented groups.

Application Deadline and Submission

Applications must be submitted by January 24, 2027 via the institute's recruitment platform: https://recruitment.biblhertz.it.

Online interviews will take place at the end of February 2027.
