North Street Review - Arts and Visual Culture

Deadline: Sep 23, 2013

North Street Review Editors

The North Street Review is a peer-viewed annual publication for original and innovative postgraduate research in the field of Art History. The Review is edited by postgraduate students in the School of Art History at the University of St. Andrews and until 2013 was called the University of St. Andrews Journal of Art History and Museum Studies.

We hereby invite submissions of essays (2,000 - 5,000 words, including endnotes) from the discourses of art and visual culture, including work that spans interdisciplinary and intermedial boundaries, and with no constraints on time period and geographical location. Potential areas of study include, but are not limited to:

- Art History;
- Painting;
- Sculpture;
- Photography;
- Architecture;
- Text/Image;
- Performance Art;
- Furniture;
- Iconology;
- Museum and Gallery Studies.

Each submission should be accompanied by a 100 word biography, and an abstract of not more than 300 words including:

- Proposed title of the essay;
- Summary of the main argument(s);
- Importance of the essay and its contribution to Art History scholarship; and
- Any additional, relevant information.

The North Street Review encourages illustrated submissions but stresses the responsibility of the author in both providing the images and securing permissions to reproduce them. Please read the Journal Copyright Agreement before making a submission.

All submissions must be in English and adhere to the North Street Review style guide, available through our website. Submissions can be made through the North Street Review website at www.ojs.st-andrews.ac.uk/index.php/nsr/about/submissions, where you will be asked to register and complete the online submission process. Submissions should be in either Microsoft Word or PDF file formats. You will be asked to follow a Preparation Checklist before making a submission.

Any queries or enquiries should be made to the editors of the North Street Review, Kristen Adlhoch and Michael Nott, through the Review website, or by email, at nsrenquiries@st-andrews.ac.uk.
