Jewish Architecture – New Sources and Approaches
April 1–3, 2014, TU Braunschweig

Organized by the Bet Tfila – Research Unit for Jewish Architecture in Europe at the Technische Universität Braunschweig & the Center for Jewish Art, Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Bet Tfila – Research Unit for Jewish Architecture in Europe organizes its second international conference "Jewish Architecture – New Sources and Approaches" in order to discuss the effective and upcoming handling of "Jewish architecture" as part of the Jewish visual heritage. The conference will take place at the TU Braunschweig (Germany), more than 30 referents from Austria, Brazil, Canada, Finland, Germany, Israel, Romania, the Slovak Republic and the USA will participate.

On the basis of primary sources and case studies, the tangible evidence of Jewish architecture in Germany and Europe will be revealed, analyzed, and placed in contrast to generic European architecture. Current activities reveal the urgency of this discussion, in which scholars of various scientific disciplines will present the state of their research as well as new work techniques and methods. The conference will emphasize the documentation and preservation of Jewish monuments and sites as well as their integration and transformation into museums. The conference program is available at <http://www.bet-tfila.org>.

To enable young scientists to present their recent research activities and to search for new research partners, the conference will include a poster presentation (max. size A0, upright format). A limited number of travel grants of max. 100 Euro is available for young scientists whose poster is accepted. Posters can also be sent to the organizers.

Please submit an abstract (max. half page A4) of your poster by March, 14, 2014 at info@bet-tfila.org. (Decision will be made by March, 17.)
