

Bruno Zevi Prize 2014

Rome

Deadline: Jul 15, 2014

Fondazione Bruno Zevi

Bruno Zevi Prize - eight edition

With a view to developing and disseminating the teaching of Bruno Zevi and his method of critical and historical inquiry, The Bruno Zevi Foundation is holding an international competition to award a prize for a historical-critical essay offering an original analysis of an architectural work or theme or an architect of the past or present.

The competition is open to holders of research doctorates with experience in these fields:

- the key role of space in architecture
- the ancient sources of the modern language
- history as methodology of architectural practice
- the modern language of architecture
- landscape and the zero-degree language of architecture

Essays already published in Italy are not eligible. The languages admitted are Italian, English and French. The prize consists of the publication of the essay and in the invitation to give a lecture on the occasion of the award.

In this eight edition the Jury is composed of: Giovanni Carbonara, Francesca Castelli, Marco di Nallo, Manuel Gausa e Benedetto Todaro

Those wishing to enter for the competition are required to provide the Bruno Zevi Foundation with all the documents required by no later than July, 15, 2014 (as attested by postmark).
